The great success which has attended the publication of "The History of the French levolution, by M. A. Thiers," is almost unparalleled. Upwards of forty thousand copies have already been disposed of in France, and the demand is still so great that a new edition is just published.

This important work, it is admitted, forms an epoch in our literaure. It has been justly regarded as a model of narration and of istorical crit cism, and the publishers believe that they could not enfor a greater benefit on the public than by supplying it at such a rice as to place it within the reach of every one. They therefore tropose to issue a new edition on the following.

The work is handsomely printed on beautiful new type, on fine paor, embellished with thirteen spirited illustrations from steel plates, to be supplied to the property of the supplied in the property of th

Each Number will contain 28 pages, and the whole work will be competed in 60 numbers, thus placing this invaluable work complete, beautifully illustrated, in the tands of subscribers for seven collars and fifty cents. The 6th annual Ploughing Exhibition will be held during the Fair. From the unity and zeal of the Managers and Members of the Institute, and from the intent already shown by contributors, a display more spendid and imposing may be expected than at either of the turteen preceing Exhibitions.

ble and original Receipts in all the various branches of Cooking, and written in a mlaute and methodiesd manner; together with a collection of Miscellaneous Receipts and directions relative to Housewifery; By an Experienced Lady. Also, the whole art of Carving, illustrated by sixteen Engravings. Fourth Edition.

"We have given this leng title page, because it is the best possible description of the character and contents of the book, which does in deed seem to contain 'every thing, and a little more,' pertaining to the subject of house keeping. To all young married ladies, or those who are soon to become so, it must, we should suppose, be an invaluable assistant."

"Here are vollected valuable receipts and directions for all kinds of tookery. Having ourselves some years of experience in household matters, we speak feelingly when we advise as follows: I. Let the first expenditure of the newly-married man, after paying a good fee to the elergyman, be for a copy of this book. He will find it to be a good investment. It will add much to the comfort of social life. 2. Let old bachelors, poor, forforn and confertless as they are, obtain a copy of the book. They will find it next door to having a wife. 3. Let all prejudiced foreigners keep their hands off, not dare to peep into those pages, especially during the hor months. 4. Let those who, by following the receipts of this book, make sundry good things, think of the editor, and have compassion upon him by just sending in a sample. Thus we shall be strengthened to notice the fourth edition, which will soon be published, as the hook sells rapidly."
